Title of Invention: Apparatus and method for cleaning paintball guns

I would like to request the following correction to my Abstract Description.
Here is the original description:

Apparatus and method for cleaning paintball guns

Abstract

A device and method for cleaning an inside barrel of a paint ball gun is provided. The cleaning device comprises a compressible cleaning tip configurable to have a smaller diameter than the inside barrel in response to a compression member, the tip being mounted to an end of an elongated tube. The inside of the paintball gun barrel is cleaned by inserting the cleaning device while compressed, and retracting it in its decompressed state.

The Abstract description should read as follows:

A device and method for cleaning an inside barrel of a paint ball gun is provided. The cleaning device comprises a compressible cleaning tip configurable to have a smaller diameter than the inside barrel in response to a compression member, the tip being mounted to an end of an elongated tube. The inside of the paintball gun barrel is cleaned by inserting the cleaning device while decompressed, and retracting it in its compressed and enlarged state.

Please note the juxtaposition of the last sentence words. Although this abstract description does not alter or change any claims made by the body of the inventions patent, I feel as if it should be changed to correctly match the rest of the actual claims in the summary of the invention which was granted in Patent #7055279.
